DESCRIPTION

Davenport Bureau by David Irwin for Another Country.

Another Country's Davenport Bureau is a contemporary storage cum workspace, ideal for creating a separation between work and home life.

Adopting the customary fold-down element of traditional bureaux, the design has been updated to remove any visual cues of working life; whilst a traditional bureau would feature an angled front, the Davenport Bureau has an even horizontal surface that reads as a cabinet when closed.

When the desk is open, the straight sides encapsulate the user into the space, aiding them in their focus whilst working.

The desk bears generous proportions, several small compartments for storing stationery, and is available with an optional pinboard or LED lighting to add on.
