DESCRIPTION

Aalto E60 Stool by Alvar Aalto for Artek.

Artek stands for art and technology. The Finnish company is renowned as one of the most innovative contributors to modern furniture design. They stand out for the clean lines, quality and longevity of their products, all made using a combination of traditional craftsmanship and new techniques.

Alvar Aalto's four-legged E60 Stool designed in 1934, is the most elemental of furniture pieces, equally suitable as a seat, table, storage unit, or display surface. Projecting a sense of relaxed familiarity, this stool is equally suited to the home, public buildings, and educational facilities. The legs are mounted directly to the underside of the round seat without the need for complicated connecting elements. Thanks to its geometry, the stool can be stacked to save space in a spiralling tower sculpture.

Also available with an upholstered seat, please enquire for details.

Assembly required.
