DESCRIPTION

Ingeborg Lounge Chair by Flemming Lassen for Audø Copenhagen.

The Ingeborg lounge chair, a charming and petite easy chair, was originally designed in 1940 by Flemming Lassen. Inspired by the designer's mother, artist Ingeborg Winding, the chair features sculptural armrests and an angled frame that introduces an inviting presence to its environment.

Characterised by its sinuous form, the seat never made it into production whilst Lassen was alive. The designer's sketches were discovered by Audø Copenhagen, who brought the design to life for the first time.

Despite its compact size, the Ingeborg offers ample sitting space and exceptional comfort. When paired with the corresponding sofa and footrest, it creates a balanced combination ideal for relaxing.
