DESCRIPTION

Spanish chair by Børge Mogensen for Fredericia.

In 1958, Børge Mogensen and his family travelled to Spain. In Andalucia, he fell in love with an old chair with a wide seat and broad armrests. Once back in Denmark, he created the Spanish Chair.

The chair he fell in love with is a traditional type of chair and is very common in areas influenced by ancient Islamic culture – from Spain to northern India. Børge Mogensen modernised the design by removing the elaborate carvings, and thus he created his own version with his customary geometrical precision. Yet he retained the most important feature: the broad armrests that give the chair its distinctive character. The broad armrests also serve as a practical place to place a cup or a glass.

MATERIALS

By designing the Spanish Chair Mogensén proved that he did not need to use steel or plastic to be innovative. Like the Hunting Chair, this classic chair is made of oak or walnut, and vegetable tanned saddle leather. This gives it a strong, masculine character, and ensures that the chair ages beautifully.

The straps allow that the back can be tightened as the leather expands, which means that you can sit securely and comfortably in this chair from day one – and for the rest of your life.

All wood from Fredericia comes from responsibly managed FSC forests, where no more trees are felled than the forest can reproduce naturally.

All Fredericia leather comes from well-known, certified sources, where professionals are trained to respect animals.
