DESCRIPTION

Nelson Bell Bubble Pendant by George Nelson for HAY.

Introducing the timeless Nelson Bell Bubble Pendant, an iconic creation by renowned American designer George Nelson. Crafted in 1947 and brought to life in 1952, this extraordinary lighting fixture influenced the landscape of modernist lighting.

Inspired by luxurious silk-covered Swedish pendant lamps Nelson wanted for his office, the designer ingeniously designed these elegant orbs as a more affordable alternative. By harnessing the innovative self-webbing plastic spray originally developed by the U.S. military, he artfully combined it with a lightweight, rounded-steel frame, resulting in a mesmerizing blend of softness and radiance.

The Bubble pendant has earned a permanent place in the prestigious collection at the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

The collection comprises a series of organic shapes and sizes. See 'More products in this range' below.

Manufactured by Herman Miller and distributed in the UK by HAY.
