

Loofah soap dish cushion

DESCRIPTION

Loofah soap dish cushion by Iris Hantverk.

The loofah cushion is a sustainable bathroom essential. The natural plant fibre is part of the family which produces cucumbers and courgettes, easily cultivated in northern Europe.

It is a practical addition, keeping the soap dry when not in use, and can be used to wash out sinks as its underside collects the residue of soapy water.

Its manufacturing process does not use chemicals. The fibre is softened through a 43-degree thermal bath.
