

Maritime bench

Designer: Ed Carpenter

Manufacturer: Very Good and Proper

£3,720

DESCRIPTION

Maritime bench by Ed Carpenter for Very Good and Proper.

Inspired by nautical vessels, from small boats to the construction techniques seen in surfboards, the Maritime bench was first commissioned by the Greenwich Maritime Museum, London.

The rounded edge of the seat gives the bench an informal profile and heightens comfort. Please see the specifications for further information.

Also available as a loveseat. The Loveseat features the same angled shape but with ergonomic back rests facing one another. Please enquire for details.

DIMENSIONS

Straight bench: 180w x 50d x 45cmh

Boomerang bench: 236w x 50/111d x 45cmh

MATERIALS

Made of solid oak or walnut, the Maritime bench is available in 2 distinct shapes. The straight bench is a traditional 2/3 seater bench. The boomerang bench features an angled shape for greater inclusivity for multiple sitters.
