DESCRIPTION

Ginger cluster of three pendant lights by Joan Gaspar for Marset.

The Ginger family is characterised by a lightweight disk-shaped shade which pays tribute to the drums of Ginger Baker of Cream, the 1960s rock band. The collection is designed to cater to various lighting needs and has expanded over time to include different sizes for suspension, tabletop, and floor models.

The range uses new materials and technology applied to the lighting sector: layers of wood, paper and resin shaped under high pressure to achieve a pendant shade thickness of just 4 mm. Although wood is difficult to shape, the Ginger collection has found a way to make it work, resulting in a sleek and intimate lamp with a light source with a soft glow.

The Ginger Cluster comprises three pendants which can be altered to hang at different heights. The result is an arrangement that adds depth, character and warmth to any space it is positioned.
